10:00 Adapting to Rising Tides

Adam Fullerton, Coastal Planner, San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission

Adam Fullerton give an overview of the Adapting to Rising Tides Program, with special emphasis on it's work in Contra Costa County. From 2014 to 2016 the Adapting to Rising Tides (ART) Program conducted a climate adaptation planning effort in western and central Contra Costa County and is currently initiating a project to extend the planning efforts to the eastern portion of the County. These projects build understanding of the diverse challenges and opportunities presented by adapting to sea level rise in the County. The information developed will help guide planning efforts and serve as a resource for communities throughout the region.

10:30 A Resilient North Richmond

Heidi Nutters, Environmental Planner, San Francisco Estuary Partnership

Heidi Nutters will describe how North Richmond is planning to adapt to sea level rise within the upland transition zone, a dynamic area of the shoreline that includes human and natural features. The North Richmond Shoreline Visioning Process incorporated a community-based planning process, looking at environmental and socio-economic factors, to enable North Richmond to adapt to future community needs. The North Richmond Shoreline Vision includes a set of actions focused on restoration, recreation and economic opportunity for local residents.

The CCWF will provide reasonable accommodations for people with disabilities planning to attend CCWF meetings who contact Elissa Robinson at least 72 hours before the meeting at erobinson@ccrcd.org or 925-672-4577 x 4150. Agenda items for the CCWF meetings are discussed by the Executive Committee prior to the meetings. There will be no executive committee meeting in September. The next Watershed Forum meeting will be held on November 8, 2017. For more information on the Contra Costa Watershed Forum go to www.cocowaterweb.org
